9. Margin and Financial Accommodation

- 9.1 The Company may, from time to time in its sole discretion, grant financial accommodation to the Client of up to such percentage (as notified by the Company to the Client from time to time) of the market value of the deposits, collateral and margin (including but without limitation, initial margins and additional margins) maintained with the Company as determined by the Company and notified to the Client from time to time ("Margin") for the purpose of financing the acquisition or holding of securities as set out in this Agreement, any facility letter from the Company to the Client and such other agreement, document, terms and conditions as may be specified by the Company from time to time (the "Margin Terms"). The Margin Terms will cover applicable Margin requirements, interest charges, Margin calls, collateral arrangements and the circumstances under which the Client's positions may be closed without the Client's consent.

- 9.2 The Client shall, upon the Company's request, deliver to the Company a deed of Guarantee executed by a Guarantor in a prescribed form that is satisfactory to the Company. If there is more than one (1) Guarantor, the Guarantors shall irrevocably and unconditionally guarantee all the Client's obligations under the Margin on a joint and several basis. The Client shall, from time to time, upon the Company's request promptly and duly execute and deliver any and all such further instruments and documents as the Company may deem necessary or desirable for the purpose of obtaining the full benefit of the Margin Terms and of the rights and powers granted under the same.
- 9.3 The Company may grant multiple Margins to the Client under the Margin Terms, provided always that the Company has absolute discretion as to whether to grant any or any part of the Margin at any time and provided further that the Client shall, at the request of the Company, deposit or cause to deposit into the Account forthwith all the securities acquired or required as collateral in connection with its refinancing or acquisition on or prior to any Margin being granted or further granted. The Company will not at any time be obligated to provide any Margin to the Client. The Company has the right to refuse to make available to the Client any Margin at any time, even if the applicable Margin limit (if any) at that time has not been exceeded.
- 9.4 The Client agrees to maintain at all times sufficient Margin as determined by the Company in its discretion (the "Margin Requirement"). The Client shall on demand by the Company from time to time, immediately make payments or deposits of additional Margin in cash, securities and/or other assets in such amount and in such form into a designated account unless a later time is specified by the Company in the Margin call. The Company also has the right, at its sole discretion, to demand immediate payment of all moneys and sums then due or owing from the Client in respect of any part of the Margin, any accrued but unpaid interest relating to the Margin or any other liabilities under this Agreement or any of the Margin Terms, and the Client agrees to pay immediately such amounts in full. All initial and subsequent deposits and payments for Margin and other purposes related to such Margin shall be made in cleared funds and in such currency and in such amounts as the Company may in its sole discretion require.
- 9.5 Without limiting or prejudicing the terms of this Agreement, any part of Margin and Margin Requirements will be subject to review and revision from time to time at the Company's sole and absolute discretion and may be increased, reduced, cancelled or otherwise varied at any time by the Company at its sole and absolute discretion by giving the Client a notice which shall take effect forthwith. No previous Margin or Margin Requirements shall establish a precedent, and revised Margin Requirements once established shall apply to existing positions as well as to the new positions of the Account affected by such revision. When the Company, at any time, deems it unsafe or inappropriate to grant the Margin or any further Margin to the Client, the Company shall have the absolute right to refuse any request for Margin, utilising any part of the Margin or granting any further Margin, without any prior notice and without assigning any reason therefor, notwithstanding that the Margin or limit of the Margin herein has not been reached or exceeded.

- 9.7 In the event that the Margin provided is, in the Company's opinion and for any reason, no longer sufficient to meet the Margin Requirement, the Company may take such action as the Company may in its discretion deem fit, including without limitation, making a Margin call to the Client and/or realising such part or all of the Margin as the Company deems necessary to satisfy the Client's obligations without notice to or consent from the Client or the collateral provider.
- 9.8 For the purposes of this Agreement, the Margin provided may, in the Company's opinion, no longer be sufficient to meet the Margin Requirement as a result of or in connection with circumstances including but without limitation to the following: (a) a change or prospective change in the local, national or international monetary, financial, economic or political conditions or foreign exchange controls which may result in or is, in the opinion of the Company, likely to result in a material or adverse fluctuation in the stock market, currency market, commodities or futures markets in Hong Kong and/or overseas; or (b) a change or prospective change having a material adverse effect on the condition or operations of the Client or the market value of the Margin.

- 9.9 Notwithstanding anything else in this Clause 9, in the event that the Company is unable to contact the Client to make demands for additional Margin pursuant to this Agreement for any reason, the Company shall be deemed to have made Margin calls to the Client in such form and/or for such amount as the Company may in its sole opinion determine where such Margin call has been issued by the Company (verbally or in writing) to the Client's last registered email address, telephone or mobile phone number or any other contact method as the Company considers appropriate at the time, and such Margin shall become immediately due and payable by the Client.
- 9.10 For the avoidance of doubt, if the Client commits a default in payment on demand of the deposits or Margins or any other sums payable to the Company hereunder, on the due date therefor, or otherwise fails to comply with any of the terms of this Agreement or the Margin Terms, without prejudice to any other rights the Company may have, the Company shall have the right, without notice to or the separate consent of the Client, to (a) close the Account, (b) close out any position in the Account, and/or (c) dispose of any or all securities held for or on behalf of the Client and to apply the proceeds thereof and any cash deposit(s) to pay the Company all outstanding balances owing to the Company by the Client. Any monies remaining after such application shall be refunded to the Client.
- 9.11 Nothing contained in this Clause 9 is intended to, or shall operate so as to, prejudice or affect any guarantee, indemnity, other security of any kind or other rights and remedies whatsoever which the Company may have in respect of any money held in the Account, in respect of any money received or paid into such Account or against the Client or any Guarantor or any other security provider or any right, remedy or privilege thereunder.

The Client acknowledges and agrees that the Client shall be wholly responsible for the confidentiality of the Personal Identification Number used to enter and/or input all the instructions through the internet trading services of the Company. The Client hereby declares that all the instructions input and/or entered through the internet trading services (include using of the mobile applications) of the Company are all made by the Client personally and the Client shall be wholly liable for the same. The Client agrees that the Company will not be deemed to have received the Client's instructions or have executed the Client's instructions unless and until the Client is in receipt of the Company's message acknowledging receipt or confirming execution of the Client's instructions, either electronically or by hard copy.

The Client understands that the internet is not a completely reliable medium of communication. There is in itself inherent and unforeseeable traffic delay and other unforeseeable factors that may be beyond the control of the Company. The Client acknowledges that owing to the existence of such unreliability, there may be a time delay in the transmission and receipt of the Client's instruction or other information and this may result in a delay in the execution of the Client's instructions or may result in execution of the Client's instructions at a different market price from that as and when the Client's instructions were given or the Client's orders may not be executed at the price as indicated on the internet. The Client agrees that the Company shall not be liable for any of the following: system, software or hardware breakdown, failure or interruption or transmission failure, delay in transmission, receipt or execution of instructions via the Company's internet trading services due to reason(s) beyond the scope of control of the Company or any other unforeseeable reason(s). The Client agrees that the Company shall not be liable for any loss or damage to the Client or any other person as a result of using or attempting to use the Company's internet trading services.

The Client also confirms acknowledges and agrees that the Company does not guarantee the timeliness, sequence, accuracy or completeness of market data or any market information accessible through or provided by the Company's internet trading services, and the Client further agrees that the Company shall not be liable in any way for any losses arising from or caused by any inaccuracy, error in or omission from any such data, information or message, any unavailability or suspension of such data, information or message or any delay in the transmission or delivery thereof beyond the scope of control of the Company or any other unforeseeable reason(s).

The Company may, without incurring any liability, terminate the Client's access to the Company's website and the use of the Company's internet trading service (a) for any cause at any time with immediate effect by notice to the Client at the time of such termination or as soon as practicable thereafter; or (b) with notice to the Client of not less than thirty (30) days (or such shorter period as the Company may in its reasonable discretion determine if such termination is due to circumstances beyond the Company's reasonable control).

The Client undertakes and warrants that the Client shall not, and shall not attempt to, tamper with, modify, decompile, reverse engineer, damage, destroy or otherwise alter in any way, and shall not attempt to gain unauthorized access to any part of the Company's internet trading services.

Remarks: All charges may be revised from time to time and subject to change in overseas countries.

3. Risk of Trading in Other Jurisdictions

The Client understands that transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose the Client to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulations which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before trading in overseas markets, the Client acknowledges that it should enquire about any rules relevant to the Client’s particular transactions. Local regulatory authorities in Hong Kong are unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in overseas jurisdictions where the Client’s transactions have been effected. In particular, Overseas Securities trading is not regulated by The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited and will not be covered by the Investor Compensation Fund. The Client would ask the firm with which the Client deals for details about the types of redress available in both his home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before the Client starts to trade.

4. Withholding Tax Arrangement

The Client should properly complete the 《W-8BEN》 form for US tax withholding purpose. The Client can obtain the 《W-8BEN》 form from the Company’s website if necessary.

(Note: All non-US persons are required to submit 《W-8BEN》 in order to enter into US stock trading. The Client understands that the Company will not provide US stock trading to US person or US citizen.)

The Client should also complete any forms or documents in relation to withholding tax arrangements that may apply in any other jurisdiction from time to time.

BONDS TRADING AUTHORIZATION LETTER

Where the Client trades bonds, the following provisions will be applicable and prevails over the terms of the Agreement in case of any inconsistency. The Client hereby authorizes the Company as his agent to conduct bonds trading on his behalf and agrees to the following terms and conditions.

1. Authorization of trading bonds

Unless specified otherwise, the Client hereby appoints the Company as his agent to trade bonds on his behalf. The Client has signed the Account Opening Information Form to accept and agrees to be bound by the Agreement with the Company to trade Hong Kong securities and under the same terms and conditions in the Agreement for bonds trading purpose.

2. Settlement

The Client will deposit the net payable to the Company's designated bank account on or before Settlement date. The Company will also deposit the net receivable to his bank account on settlement date. The Client agrees that the safe custody of his bonds will be entrusted to a designated broker of the Company.

3. Trading hours, charges and investment amount

- (a) The Client will refer to the Company website to view specific trading hours and settlement arrangement, or contact the Client Service Department at (852) 2147-8836 for most updated information.
- (b) Commission, Safe Custody, Interest Collection and Redemption Fee (if any) vary with different bonds.
- (c) The minimum and incremental investment amount varies from bond to bond. The Client will consult the Company for more details (where necessary).

4. Important Risk Warning

- (a) The Client understands that any bond with a credit rating of 'BBB/Baa' or above by S&P/Fitch/Moody's belongs to investment grade, which means the bond issuer has at least adequate protection parameters to meet its financial commitment on the obligation. The higher the rating, the stronger the issuers' capacity to meet their obligation.
- (b) Bond is an investment product. The Client understands that bond investments are not bank deposits. It is NOT protected under the Hong Kong Deposit Protection Scheme. The Client will not invest in the bond unless the Client fully understands and is willing to assume the risks associated with it. For bonds not listed on The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited, any dealings in them are off-exchange transactions, investor will not be covered by any investor compensation fund established to provide compensation in respect of listed securities in the event of intermediary default.
- (c) The Client understands that the bond is subject to both the actual and perceived measures of credit worthiness of the issuer. There is no assurance of protection against a default by the issuer in respect of the repayment obligations. In the worst case (e.g. upon insolvency of issuer), the Client might not be able to recover the principal and any coupon if the issuer defaults on the bond.
- (d) The Client understands that bonds are mainly for medium to long-term investment, not for short-term speculation. The Client should be prepared to invest Client's funds in bonds for the full investment tenor; the Client could lose part or all of Client's investment if the Client chooses to sell his bonds prior to maturity.

- (e) The Client understands that it is the issuer to pay interest and repay principal of bonds. If the issuer defaults, the holder of bonds may not be able to receive back the interest and principal. The holder of bonds bears the credit risk of the issuer and has no recourse to the Company unless the Company is the issuer itself.
- (f) The Client understands that the Company does not guarantee the existence of a secondary market for bonds, therefore the circumstances in which the holder of bonds may be able to realize their investment may be limited, the Client may not be able to sell the bond if the liquidity of the secondary bond market is low.
- (g) The Client understands that if he holds a callable bond, when the interest rate goes down, the issuer may redeem the bond before maturity. If this happens and the Client has to re-invest the proceeds, the yields on other bonds in the market will generally be less favourable.
- (h) Indicative bond prices are available and bond prices do fluctuate when market changes. The Client understands that the rise and fall of a rating influences the corresponding bond price significantly, factors affecting market price of bonds include, and are not limited to, fluctuations in Interest Rates, Credit Spreads, and Liquidity Premiums. The fluctuation in yield generally has a greater effect on prices of longer tenor bonds. There is an inherent risk that losses may be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling bonds.
- (i) The Client understands that trading bonds may have counterparty risk. Counterparty risk means the risk to each party of a contract that the counterparty will not live up to its contractual obligations. The Client understands that counterparty risk should be considered when evaluating the contract.
- (j) The Client understands that if the bond is denominated in a foreign currency, there may be exchange rate risks if the Client chooses to convert payments made on the bonds to his home currency.
- (k) The Client understands that the return on bonds will lose purchasing power if commodity prices go up. Inflation is therefore a serious concern for those who need to rely on the regular income from bonds.
- (l) The Client understands that if the bond is “convertible” or “exchangeable”, the holder of bonds also face equity risk associated with the stock. A fall in the stock price will usually cause the bond price fall.
- (m) The Client understands that a corporate event such as a merger or takeover may lower the credit rating of the bond issuer. In case the corporate restructurings are financed by the issuance of a large amount of new debt-burden, the company’s ability to pay off existing bonds will be weakened.
- (n) The Client understands that investment decision is Client’s, but the Client should not invest unless the intermediary who sells it to him has advised him that it is suitable for him and has explained why, including how buying it would be consistent with Client’s investment objectives. If the Client is not sure of the suitability of the product, the Client should not subscribe to it.
- (o) The Client should carefully consider whether any investment products or services mentioned herein are appropriate for him in view of his investment experience, objectives, financial resources, risk profile and other relevant circumstances.

RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS - GENERAL

The Client acknowledges, understands and accepts the risks set out below:

1. Risk Disclosure Statements for Securities Trading

The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

2. Risk Disclosure Statements for Trading NASDAQ – Amex Securities at The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (the “Exchange”)

The securities under the Nasdaq – Amex Pilot Program (“PP”) are aimed at sophisticated investors. The Client should consult the Client’s dealer and become familiarized with the PP before trading in the PP securities. The Client should be aware that the PP securities are not regulated as a primary or secondary listing on the Main Board or the Growth Enterprise Market (“GEM”) of the Exchange.

3. Risk Disclosure Statements for Trading GEM Stocks

- 3.1 The Client acknowledges that the price of securities traded on GEM can and does fluctuate, and any individual security may experience upwards or downwards movements, and may even become valueless. There is an inherent risk that losses may be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities traded on GEM. The Client also acknowledges that there may be risks in leaving securities in the Company’s safekeeping. For example, if the Company is holding the Client’s securities and the Company becomes insolvent, the Client may experience significant delay in recovering the securities. These are risks that the Client is prepared to accept.
- 3.2 The Client understands that GEM has been established as a market designed to accommodate companies to which a high investment risk may be attached. In particular, the Client understands that companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. The Client appreciates that there may be risks arising out of the emerging nature of companies listed on GEM and the business sectors or countries in which the companies operate.
- 3.3 The Client is aware of the potential risks of investing in such companies and understands that the Client should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The Client understands the greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors.
- 3.4 Given the emerging nature of companies listed on GEM, the Client understands there is a risk that securities traded on GEM may be susceptible to higher market volatility compared to securities traded on the Main Board and no assurance is given that there will be a liquid market in the securities traded on GEM.
- 3.5 The Client further understands that the principal means of information dissemination on GEM is publication on the internet website operated by the Exchange. Companies listed on GEM are not generally required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers. Accordingly, the Client acknowledges that the Client needs to have access to up-to-date information on GEM-listed companies as published on the GEM website.
- 3.6 The Client acknowledges that this Risk Disclosure Statements does not purport to disclose all the risks and other significant aspects of GEM. The Client understands that the Client should undertake the Client’s own research and study on the trading of securities on GEM before commencing any trading activities.
- 3.7 The Client understands that the Client should seek independent professional advice if the Client is uncertain of or has not understood any aspect of this Risk Disclosure Statements or the nature and risks involved in trading of securities on GEM.

3.8 The Client understands that the signing of this Risk Disclosure Statements is mandatory under the Rules of the Exchange. The Client understands that the Company will not be able to effect the Client's instructions to deal in securities on GEM if this statement is not signed and acknowledged by the Client.

4. Risk of Margin Trading

The risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. The Client may sustain losses in excess of the Client's cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with the Company. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. The Client may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, the Client's collateral may be liquidated without the Client's consent. Moreover, the Client will remain liable for any resulting deficit in the Account and interest charged on the Account. The Client should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of the Client's own financial position and investment objectives.

5. Risk of Providing an Authority to Repledge the Client's Securities Collateral etc.

5.1 There is risk if the Client provides the Company with an authority that allows it to apply the Client's securities or securities collateral pursuant to a securities borrowing and lending agreement, repledge the Client's securities collateral for financial accommodation or deposit the Client's securities collateral as collateral for the discharge and satisfaction of its settlement obligations and liabilities.

5.2 If the Client's securities or securities collateral are received or held by the Company in Hong Kong, the above arrangement is allowed only if the Client consents in writing. Moreover, unless the Client is a professional investor, the Client's authority must specify the period for which it is current and be limited to not more than 12 months. If the Client is a professional investor, these restrictions do not apply.

5.3 Additionally, the Client's authority may be deemed to be renewed (i.e. without the Client's written consent) if the Company issues the Client a reminder at least 14 days prior to the expiry of the authority, and the Client does not object to such deemed renewal before the expiry date of the Client's then existing authority.

5.4 The Client is not required by any law to sign these authorities. But an authority may be required by the Company, for example, to facilitate margin lending to the Client or to allow the Client's securities or securities collateral to be lent to or deposited as collateral with third parties. The Company should explain to the Client the purposes for which one of these authorities is to be used.

5.5 If the Client signs one of these authorities and the Client's securities or securities collateral are lent to or deposited with third parties, those third parties will have a lien or charge on the Client's securities or securities collateral. Although the Company is responsible to the Client for securities or securities collateral lent or deposited under the Client's authority, a default by it could result in the loss of the Client's securities or securities collateral.

5.6 A cash account not involving securities borrowing and lending is available from the Company. If the Client does not require margin facilities or does not wish the Client's securities or securities collateral to be lent or pledged, does not sign the above authorities and asks to open a cash account.

6. Risk of Client Assets Received or Held outside Hong Kong

Client assets received or held by the Company outside Hong Kong are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction which may be different from the SFO and the rules made thereunder. Consequently, such client assets may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on client assets received or held in Hong Kong.

7. Risk of Providing an Authority to Hold Mail or Direct Mail to Third Parties

If the Client provides the Company with an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties, the Client understands that it is important for the Client to promptly collect in person all contract notes and statements of the Account and review them in detail to ensure that any anomalies or mistakes can be detected in a timely fashion.

8. Risk of Providing Authorization to Third Parties

The Client understands and is fully aware of the potential risk arising from the third parties' authorization. The Client also acknowledges that the Company shall be entitled to assume that any of the third parties has full and unrestricted powers and authority to perform trading on behalf of the Client and shall not be under any duty to verify the authenticity of the instructions or identity of such person(s). The Client agrees to be bound by instructions given on behalf of the Client by third parties.

9. Risk of Providing Services through Electronic Means

Due to unpredictable traffic congestion and other reasons, electronic transmission may not be a reliable medium of communications. Information transmitted or transactions conducted via electronic means are subject to delays in transmission and receipt of the Client's instructions or other information, delays in execution or execution of the Client's instructions at prices different from those prevailing at the time the Client's instructions were given, transmission interruption or blackout. There are risks of misunderstanding or errors in communication. It is also usually not possible to cancel an instruction after it has been given.

The Company may make available e-statements to Clients via the internet. Given the risks associated with the internet and technical limitations generally, there may be delays in the Company's provision of such e-statements or the Client's ability to access such e-statements via the Company's website or mobile application.

10. Risk of Trading in Other Jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose the Client to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before the Client trades he or she should enquire about any rules relevant to his or her particular transactions. The Client's local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where the Client's transactions have been effected. The Client should ask the firm with which he or she deals for details about the types of redress available in both his or her home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before the Client starts to trade.

11. Commissions and other Charges

Before the Client begins to trade, it should obtain a clear explanation of all commissions, fees and other charges for which it will be liable. These charges will affect the Client's net profit (if any) or increase the Client's net loss.

12. Currency Risks

The profit or loss in Transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts (whether they are traded in the Client's own jurisdiction or in another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert the currency denomination of the Transaction contract(s) from one currency to another currency.

13. Market Risk

Market risk, or systematic risk, stems from the economic, geographical, political, social or other factors of the relevant market, and is affected by variables that are related to the entire market. For example, if the Client invests in a financial product listed in Hong Kong, this investment will be subject to the systematic risk related to the entire Hong Kong market. When any event affects the systematic risk of the market, all financial products will be impacted either in the form of a rise or fall in the prices. This will apply whether the Client holds one single financial product or a diversified portfolio of financial products in that market. As long as the Client keeps their holdings, the exposure to the systematic risk of the market cannot be avoided. Clients should be aware that market risk cannot be eliminated, no matter how their holdings are diversified. Clients should seek professional advice as they think appropriate or necessary to manage (but not eliminate) market risk, and should be careful about the proportion of investments into a single market.

14. Off-exchange Transactions

In some jurisdictions, and only then in restricted circumstances, firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. The Company may be acting as the Client's counterparty to the transaction. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price or to assess the exposure to risk. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime. Before the Client undertakes such transactions, the Client should familiarise itself with applicable rules and attendant risks.

15. Trading Facilities

Electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. The Client's ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or participant firms. Such limits may vary: the Client should ask the Company for details in this respect.

Clients have the option to opt out of "trade execution" notifications. However, there are risks associated with opting out of such notifications, including the Client not being notified or a delay in the Client's discovery as to whether trades have been successfully executed or if there are unusual trades or mistakes.

16. Emerging Markets Risk

Special risks may be associated with transactions and investments in financial products of or related to issuers and counterparties established under the laws of, based or principally engaged in, business in emerging markets countries ("Emerging Markets Products"). Emerging markets countries include all countries where financial markets are less well developed than in the countries such as those of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (the "OECD").

The risks associated with Emerging Markets Products may arise because, among other things, there are political and economic uncertainties that are greater than in OECD countries. Additionally, some of the emerging markets countries do not have fully developed or clear legal, judicial, regulatory or settlement infrastructures, and the accounting standards may differ markedly. The markets of such emerging countries may be far less liquid or transparent than in OECD countries. There may be other special risks associated with Emerging Markets Products and the foregoing is not intended to be a thorough and exhaustive description of all possible risks.

Transactions in Emerging Markets Products should be made only by Clients with sufficient ability to appreciate the special risks, and with the resources to bear any losses that may be incurred in such markets. Before making any investment in an Emerging Markets Product, Clients should independently satisfy itself that it (and, if applicable, its underlying client) understands and appreciates the significance of the relevant risks, and that such an investment is appropriate and suitable for it (or, if applicable, its underlying client) in light of its or their objectives, experience, financial and operational resources and other relevant circumstances. Client should also ensure that it (and, if applicable, its underlying client) fully understands the nature of the transaction, the contractual relationship into which it or they are entering and the nature and extent of its or their exposure to risk of loss.

17. Information and Documents Provided by Third Parties

The Company and its employees shall have no responsibility or liability for the completeness, accuracy or validity of the contents of any documents or instructions relating to securities issued or provided by third party(ies) to the Company. Clients shall conduct their own independent assessment and research on the contents of those documents or instruments. The prices for securities are provided by the relevant exchange and/or other information provider(s) as selected by the Company. The Company and the relevant exchange and/or the other information provider(s) do not guarantee the accuracy and reliability of such information and shall not be responsible for any losses suffered by the Clients as a result of inaccuracy and incompleteness of the information.

18. Electronic Trading

Trading on a particular electronic trading system may differ from trading on other electronic trading systems. If the Client undertakes transactions on an electronic trading system, the Client will be exposed to risks associated with the system, including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that the Client's order is either not executed according to its instructions or is not executed at all.

Due to unpredictable connections or technical difficulties in communication and other reasons, electronic services may not be reliable and may be subject to transmission interruptions or blackouts. Transactions conducted via electronic services may be subject to delays with respect to the transmission and receipt of the Client's instructions or other information, which may result in the execution of the Client's its instructions at prices different from those prevailing at the time instructions were given. There are also risks of hacking, misunderstanding or errors in communication, and it may not be possible to cancel an instruction after it has been given via an electronic trading system.

RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS – DERIVATIVE PRODUCTS

This brief statement does not disclose all of the risks and other significant aspects of trading in derivative or structured products (such as Derivative Warrants, Callable Bull/Bear Contracts, Exchange Traded Funds and Equities Linked Instruments) (collectively referred as “Derivative Products”). In light of the risks, you should undertake such transactions only if you understand the nature of the contracts (and contractual relationships) into which you are entering and the extent of your exposure to risk. Trading in derivative or structured products is not suitable for many members of the public. You should carefully consider whether trading is appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances. If you are in doubt about this statement or any specific issue of the sale and purchase of derivative or structured products or otherwise, you should consult your solicitor, accountant or other independent professional adviser(s).

1. General Risk of Trading in Derivatives and Structured Products

Derivative Products are complex and leveraged investment products. It may be not capital guaranteed and its return will be dependent on its underlying asset(s) which are affected by a wide range of factors and may rise or fall rapidly. It is very important that you should read all the relevant offering documents to fully understand the features and risks of Derivatives Products and the legal terms and conditions of the documentation for such Derivative Product before deciding to invest.

1.1 Issuer default risk

In the event that a structured product issuer becomes insolvent and defaults on their listed securities, investors will be considered as unsecured creditors and will have no preferential claims to any assets held by the issuer. Investors should therefore pay close attention to the financial strength and credit worthiness of structured product issuers.

(Note: “Issuers Credit Rating” showing the credit ratings of individual issuers is now available under the Issuer and Liquidity Provider Information sub-section under Derivative Warrants and under CBBCs section on the Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited’s (“HKEX”) corporate website (<http://www.hkex.com.hk>).

1.2 Uncollateralized product risk

Uncollateralized structured products are not asset backed. In the event of issuer bankruptcy, investors can lose their entire investment. Investors should read the listing documents to determine if a product is uncollateralized.

1.3 Gearing risk

Structured products such as derivative warrants and callable bull/bear contracts (CBBCs) are leveraged and can change in value rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. Investors should be aware that the value of a structured product may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.

1.4 Expiry considerations

Structured products have an expiry date after which the issue may become worthless. Investors should be aware of the expiry time horizon and choose a product with an appropriate lifespan for their trading strategy.

1.5 Extraordinary price movements

The price of a structured product may not match its theoretical price due to outside influences such as market supply and demand factors. As a result, actual traded prices can be higher or lower than the theoretical price.

1.6 Foreign exchange risk

Investors trading structured products with underlying assets not denominated in Hong Kong dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the structured product price.

1.7 Liquidity risk

The Exchange requires all structured product issuers to appoint a liquidity provider for each individual issue. The role of liquidity providers is to provide two way quotes to facilitate trading of their products. In the event that a liquidity provider defaults or ceases to fulfill its role, investors may not be able to buy or sell the product until a new liquidity provider has been assigned.

2. Specific Risk of Trading Derivative Warrants (“DW”)

2.1 Time decay risk

All things being equal, the value of a derivative warrant will decay over time as it approaches its expiry date. Derivative warrants should therefore not be viewed as long term investments.

2.2 Volatility risk

Prices of derivative warrants can increase or decrease in line with the implied volatility of underlying asset price. Investors should be aware of the underlying asset volatility.

3. Specific Risk of Trading Callable Bull/Bear Contracts (“CBBC”)

3.1 Mandatory call risk

Investors trading CBBCs should be aware of their intraday “knockout” or mandatory call feature. A CBBC will cease trading when the underlying asset value equals the mandatory call price/level as stated in the listing documents. Investors will only be entitled to the residual value of the terminated CBBC as calculated by the product issuer in accordance with the listing documents. Investors should also note that the residual value can be zero.

3.2 Funding costs

The issue price of a CBBC includes funding costs. Funding costs are gradually reduced over time as the CBBC moves towards expiry. The longer the duration of the CBBC, the higher the total funding costs. In the event that a CBBC is called, investors will lose the funding costs for the entire lifespan of the CBBC. The formula for calculating the funding costs are stated in the listing documents.

4. Specific Risk of Trading Exchange Traded Funds (“ETFs”)

4.1 Market risk

ETFs are typically designed to track the performance of certain indices, market sectors, or groups of assets such as stocks, bonds, or commodities. ETF managers may use different strategies to achieve this goal, but in general they do not have the discretion to take defensive positions in declining markets. Investors must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/assets.

4.2 Tracking errors

Tracking errors refer to the disparity in performance between an ETF and its underlying index/assets. Tracking errors can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETF manager's replication strategy. The common replication strategies include full replication/representative sampling and synthetic replication which are discussed in more detail below.

4.3 Trading at discount or premium

An ETF may be traded at a discount or premium to its Net Asset Value (NAV). This price discrepancy is caused by supply and demand factors, and may be particularly likely to emerge during periods of high market volatility and uncertainty. This phenomenon may also be observed for ETFs tracking specific markets or sectors that are subject to direct investment restrictions.

4.4 Foreign exchange risk

Investors trading ETFs with underlying assets not denominated in Hong Kong dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETF price.

4.5 Liquidity risk

Securities Market Makers (SMMs) are Exchange Participants that provide liquidity to facilitate trading in ETFs. Although most ETFs are supported by one or more SMMs, there is no assurance that active trading will be maintained. In the event that the SMMs default or cease to fulfill their role, investors may not be able to buy or sell the product.

4.6 Counterparty risk involved in ETFs with different replication strategies

(a) Full replication and representative sampling strategies

An ETF using a full replication strategy generally aims to invest in all constituent stocks/assets in the same weightings as its benchmark. ETFs adopting a representative sampling strategy will invest in some, but not all of the relevant constituent stocks/assets. For ETFs that invest directly in the underlying assets rather than through synthetic instruments issued by third parties, counterparty risk tends to be less of concern. Synthetic replication strategies.

(b) Synthetic replication strategies

ETFs utilising a synthetic replication strategy use swaps or other derivative instruments to gain exposure to a benchmark. Currently, synthetic replication ETFs can be further categorized into two forms:-

(i) Swap-based ETFs

- Total return swaps allow ETF managers to replicate the benchmark performance of ETFs without purchasing the underlying assets.
- Swap-based ETFs are exposed to counterparty risk of the swap dealers and may suffer losses if such dealers default or fail to honor their contractual commitments.

(ii) Derivative embedded ETFs

- ETF managers may also use other derivative instruments to synthetically replicate the economic benefit of the relevant benchmark. The derivative instruments may be issued by one or multiple issuers.
- Derivative embedded ETFs are subject to counterparty risk of the derivative instruments' issuers and may suffer losses if such issuers default or fail to honour their contractual commitments.

Even where collateral is obtained by an ETF, it is subject to the collateral provider fulfilling its obligations. There is a further risk that when the right against the collateral is exercised, the market value of the collateral could be substantially less than the amount secured resulting in significant loss to the ETF. It is important that investors understand and critically assess the implications arising due to different ETF structures and characteristics.

5. Specific Risk of Trading Equities Linked Instrument (“ELI”)

ELIs are structured products involving derivatives and its return component is based on the performance of the underlying asset. When an investor purchases an ELI, he is indirectly writing an option on the underlying shares. Investors should pay attention to the points below.

5.1 Exposure to equity market

Investors are exposed to price movements in the underlying security and the stock market, the impact of dividends and corporate actions and counterparty risks. Investors must also be prepared to accept the risk of receiving the underlying shares or a payment less than their original investment.

5.2 Possibilities of losing investment

Investors may lose part or all of their investment if the price of the underlying security moves against their investment view.

5.3 Price adjustment

Investors should note that any dividend payment on the underlying security may affect its price and the payback of the ELI at expiry due to ex-dividend pricing. Investors should also note that issuers may make adjustments to the ELI due to corporate actions on the underlying security.

5.4 Interest rates

While most ELIs offer a yield that is potentially higher than the interest on fixed deposits and traditional bonds, the return on investment is limited to the potential yield of the ELI.

5.5 Potential yield

Investors should consult their brokers on fees and charges related to the purchase and sale of ELI and payment / delivery at expiry. The potential yields disseminated by HKEx have not taken fees and charges into consideration.
